Dear Sisters and Brothers in Christ,

Grace and peace to you in the name of our almighty and gracious God: the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit.

Eric Kolbell writes:

Four months after our 14-year-old daughter Kate was hit by a car and nearly killed, we had to return to the hospital for some follow-up surgery. It was a triumphal return of sorts because by all accounts she never should have survived the accident. But not only did she survive, her recuperation had been nothing short of miraculous, and her prognosis was good.

The day after the surgery, when she was understandably woozy and recuperating in the pediatric ICU, a funny thing happened. One by one, totally independent of one another, the medical staff who had treated her came to her bedside, each saying essentially the same thing. "Kate, you wouldn't remember me," they'd tell her, "but I worked with you when you were here this (past) summer. It's good to see you." Nurses, doctors, therapists, clergy, social workers, even volunteers joined the queue until, after about a dozen or so had come by, I pulled one of them aside.

"Nancy, it's wonderful that you've all taken the time to come by—it means a great deal to us." I told the nurse, "but I get the sense there's something more going on here than meets the eye. I get the sense that you folks need to do this."

"We do," she told me. "You see, for every ten kids who come to us as seriously injured as she was, there's maybe one Kate, one kid who beats the odds and makes it through." She told me that they needed to see her because it's that joy that sustains them through all the pain and sadness they see the rest of the time. "It's what keeps us coming back and doing our job."

As I read this story, tears welled up in my eyes as I thought about all the doctors, nurses, various hospital workers and staff, and the EMTs, police, and other first responders who have to deal with such catastrophic events daily, weekly, or monthly. I recalled, years ago in a community I used to serve, my agreeing to meet with some first responders who were going through some difficulties. I was expecting perhaps one or two might show up, but then being stunned when the whole crew of 8-10 members showed. Some had come just to support the others, but most shared stories of sleepless nights as they kept reliving the trauma of certain calls they had gone out on. They shared also about the anxiety, distraction and mood swings they were experiencing, and the resulting difficulties in their relationships. These rescuers and healers who were doing so much for others in their community were hurting. They were showing classic symptoms of post-traumatic stress. And they knew it. But, because there were so few of them and there was no one else to go out to face future emergencies, they continued to try to keep on working despite the symptoms—to, hopefully, help save lives. These men and women were living on the edge—and that was when times were considered normal. Imagine, now, how it is for the men and women all across the board, in hospitals, in nursing homes, on first responder calls, and all the rest—imagine how much harder it has to be with thousands upon thousands of added suffering and deaths due to COVID. Please keep these people in your prayers.

It's not just those 65 and older or those with pre-existing conditions whose lives are affected by the COVID virus. (Though, it seems to me that this should be enough to keep us masking and social-distancing.) COVID's web is much greater. The idea that I keep hearing that we should just forget about the masks, the social distancing and the other precautions, that we should just go on about our normal routines and let nature take its course, seems terribly naïve to me. The impact from this crisis reaches much deeper into our society. And the affects will have repercussions for years to come. I know our COVID numbers are down in our area, but not so in many other states. If we fail to remain vigilant, our numbers too could again rise and threaten to overwhelm. Please take those commercials with doctors and nurses pleading with us to wear our masks in public and to continue social-distancing seriously. Let's give our medical people and our more vulnerable people the best chances they can get. They all deserve more than just our prayers. Thank you all in advance!

Take care and God bless!

Yours in Christ,

Pastor Randy

4.2 Smart Team update: The SMART team met January 9th. It was discussed since COVID cases are on the decline and a vaccine is beginning to be distributed that it may be time to open for indoor worship. Tentative Indoor Worship

Tentatively we are planning to hold our first indoor worship service of the year on February 14, 2021 at 11:00 am

We appreciate your cooperation and willingness to follow the guidance provided to us from the Minnesota Department of Health (MDH). Without everyone's compliance the indoor worship services will not be allowed to continue. Here are the practices that will allow us to have indoor worship:

*Masks must be worn at all times inside the building along with social distancing (maintaining 6 feet between household groups).

*Attendees will need to keep your coats and personal items with you as you enter the sanctuary and are seated.

*All people entering the building will need to sign in and provide a contact number. This is for contact tracing should the church be informed that someone attending has been diagnosed with COVID-19.

*Congregational singing will not be allowed due to added risk of the spread of COVID-19. We may incorporate some special music, but this will be very limited and highly regulated according to MDH guidelines.

*No food or beverages served, and no fellowship time, before, during or after the worship service.

*Offering plates will not be passed. Offerings can be dropped in the offering containers as you enter or leave the sanctuary.

*At least 3 volunteer staff will be needed for each service. One to assist with the signing in process, one to direct people, one to serve as the Compliance Officer (the state mandated person charged with ensuring everyone in attendance is complying with the rules—sort of a “saintly” church bouncer type.)

Please also note that MDH guidelines continue to discourage vulnerable people from attending indoor worship services even with the above precautions. Vulnerable people are defined as those 65 years old and older, and/or those with pre-existing conditions.

For all those uncomfortable with the higher risk of exposing yourselves or others to COVID-19 in such an indoor group setting, we will continue our drive-in, parking lot worship services at 10 am each Sunday, and our online worship services.

Thank you for your continued patience and understanding in these challenging times!

A more in-depth letter will be sent to congregation members in the following week, please be on the look out for that. We ask that you read through the letter thoroughly before resuming indoor worship services.

NLLC Annual Meeting

The NLLC annual meeting will be held on February 7, 2021 following the parking lot worship service. We ask that you remain in your vehicles in the parking lot following worship.

Reports are available in the church lobby for members to pick up.

Office manager hours are Tues., Wed., & Thurs. 12:00 pm - 4:00 pm.
Otherwise feel free to stop by when Pastor Randy's vehicle is outside.

If you are uncomfortable coming inside, give the church office a call and someone will bring a copy out to your vehicle.

You must be present at the meeting in order to vote.

Lenten Season

Lent this year will be an online bible study. Videos will be posted on the NLLC Facebook page and on the website at newlifeparish.net.

We are looking for 8-16 people who would be willing to come in and record a chapter reading from the book of Mark for these bible study's.

There will be packets of ashes available to pick up in the church lobby beginning February 1st for anyone that wants to participate in the placing of the ashes on your forehead at home, during the Ash Wednesday Bible Study. Ashes may be limited and will be first come, first served.

8:45 am at Little Bethany Lutheran Church

10:00 am at New Life Lutheran Church

(Tune in your radio to 101.3, online bulletins available at newlifeparish.net)

Please feel free to bring a lawn chair to sit outside,
you can also bring an umbrella or canopy for shade.

Feel free to wave or yell "Hello" to others while practicing social distancing and maintaining 6 feet away from those not in your immediate household.

Masks are not required but are encouraged if you are sitting outside of your vehicle.

If you are unable to access the online version of the weekly bulletin for the parking lot worship service and would like a copy mailed to you please call Patrice in the church office at 867-6557. If no one is available please leave your name, number, and mailing address on the answering machine and we will add you to the list.

Once there was a little village nestled securely in a valley between two mountains. Its people were very advanced compared with those who lived in the neighboring villages.

They had learned how to build bridges, how to farm the slopes of the mountains, how to make laws to govern themselves, and how to write poetry about the beauty that surrounded them.

The villagers had a special treasure ... a chest filled with beautiful jewels. No one could remember just how or when the village had first come to possess the chest, except that it had been given to them as a gift from someone who had loved them very much. The villagers were very proud of their treasure. They took good care of it and even built a special room for it. Life was good for the people who lived in the village, but one thing disturbed them. They longed desperately to share the beauty of the jewels with their children; to let them see the sparkling colors with their own eyes. But they had forgotten how to open the chest. This was a very distressing situation and one day they did hold a meeting to discuss the problem.

Everyone agreed how very important it was for the children to be able to see the jewels with their own eyes, but when they got around to discussing how the chest might be opened, no one felt qualified to open it or had the time to try. Each year they passed a resolution about how important it was for their children to see the jewels with their own eyes. And yet each year no one felt qualified to open the chest or had the time to try.

The moral of this story is if you don't take time, it will take you. The trail of broken promises and commitments in our lives is paved with the excuse of not having time. Stewardship is the experience of turning intentions into actions.
